CARTER IDEAL IS SUCCESSFUL

FORMER RESIDENTS ESTABLISH SYMPHONY CONCERTS.

IS CHIEF ATTRACTION

Mrs. Carter Will Be Remembered As Miss Artie May Mason— Opening of Season On July 7.

Symphony music, founded by a Missourian and supported largely by middle-westerners, is Southern California's chief outdoor attraction this summer and has a particular interest for Maryville because of its founders, Dr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Carter, who lived and were married in Maryville a number of years ago, have established through their belief in "music for the people" the now-famous Hollywood Bowl Summer Concerts, and the opening on July 7 was their fourth season of "Symphonies under the Stars."

Miss Artie May Mason will be remembered by Maryville persons as a charming young piano teacher. Her home was in Salisbury, Mo., but after marrying Dr. Carter here they lived for the next seven years in Weston, Mo. Dr. Carter was the leading physician of that vicinity, and his young wife continued her teaching among the nearby communities. They traveled abroad just before the War, and lived in Vienna for several years, where Dr. Carter practiced and studied in the clinics, and where Mrs. Carter studied with the great master of the piano, Leschetizky.

The Bowl Concerts are the result of the Carter ideal of "music for all people," and their belief that, if given the opportunity to hear the world's finest music at low prices, the people will respond and will support their own orchestras. This summer, from July 7 to August 30, the Bowl Concerts will play their fourth season—a Festival year in celebration of California's diamond Jubilee. The renowned conductors from all parts of America will be guest conductors in the Bowl, including Fritz Reiner of Cincinnati, Rudolph Ganz of St. Louis, Sir Henry Wood of London, Ernest Bloch of Cleveland, and many others. A number of compositions never played before will be introduced, as well as some modern works not previously heard on the Pacific Coast.

"I attribute most of the Bowl's success to those splendid middle-westerners who are 'pioneering' in California today," says Mrs. Carter. "Because the Bowl is founded on sane and democratic principles and offers fine music to the people at a price they can pay—25 cents—it has triumphed where other symphony orchestras fail. It does my heart good to see audiences of 20,000 throng into the Bowl on the special nights we sometimes set aside as 'Missouri Night,' 'Illinois Night,' or 'Iowa Night,' for I know these are the true Americans, and the ones who perhaps have the greatest appreciation for good music."

Dr. and Mrs. Carter give their time unstintedly to the Bowl, and it is due entirely to their efforts and splendid service that this beautiful democratic art movement has succeeded, and taken its place definitely at the head of all summer music in America. The Bowl, a great, beautiful, sloping natural hill-theater, has a perfect natural acoustic which makes perfectly distinct and audible on its highest rim and faintest sound of a violin or a voice from the stage below.

Mrs. Carter has just visited several places in Missouri on her second transcontinental tour in the interest of outdoor summer music. It is expected that concerts in Swope Park, Kansas City and in Krug Park, St. Joseph, will be established this year, as the direct result of Mrs. Carter's visit. Her speeches to groups, to City Councils and over the large radio stations everywhere have been an incentive to other communities to encourage their own community singing groups, their choral societies and bands, as the proper means of developing outdoor music festivals similar to the Hollywood Bowl.

WABASH SENDS A CREW HERE

COMMENCE WORK AT FREIGHT YARDS THIS MORNING.

DEPOT TO BE MOVED

Gray Is Moving His Oil Tanks Today —Will Take Up Tracks South of Fourth Street.

A great change will be seen in the appearance of the Wabash freight yards within the next day, said E. L. Ferritor, local agent this morning.

Mr. Ferritor based his statement on the fact that a crew of workmen under E. M. Andrie arrived last night and started operations this morning on the job of moving the tracks in the freight yard preparatory to moving the freight depot.

The John Gray Oil tanks and coal sheds are being moved today to the location of where the Derby oil tanks formerly stood. Mr. Gray has leased the Derby tanks for storage purposes Mr. Gray's tanks will be located north of Seventh street and east of the Wabash stock tracks.

The tracks that now are south of Fourth street will be taken up as soon as possible to a point where a new cut-off road will be surveyed off and constructed from Fourth street to the College.

The crew that is here now is getting the grade in shape for tracks that will be alongside of the depot when it is moved. It will then build a track up to the depot, the depot put on jacks and the track extended underneath so that flat cars can be run under it and the depot moved in this manner.

Various Numbers on Literary Program

The Eurekan Literary Society which met at the College yesterday afternoon was entertained with a reading by one of the society's own members, Miss Ruby Goodwin who is specializing in dramatic work at the College. Her reading was "The Big Fat Lummox" one of Booth Tarkington's delightful short stories. "Pale Moon" was a vocal solo by Christine Goff as an added number on the program.

Where the Concerts Are Given

Seven Hogs Are Stolen From B. J. Yards Last Night

Working on the theory that it is cheaper to steal hogs than it is to raise and feed them, unkonwn parties backed a truck up to the stock yards at Burlington Junction last night and drove off with seven pigs.

The sheriff was notified this morning by Irvin Fast. The trail left by the truck showed that it was backed up to a car standing at the run to the yards and the hogs driven through it onto the truck. A truck with hard rear tires and pneumatic front tires was used to convey the livestock away from the yards.

ACCOUNTS OF CRUELTY TOLD

SMALL CHILD SEVERELY BEATEN, WITNESS SAYS.

BELT USED AS LASH

Amazing Incidents Related By Woman In Kansas City Courtroom—Child Put Out In Zero Weather.

Kansas City, July 17.—Amazing accounts of cruel treatment accorded 5-year-old Helen Swank by Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Higgins, with whom the child boarded, were related today on the witness stand in Judge Nelson Johnson's court.

Higgins is on trial charged with cruelty to the child. Neighbors of the Higgins' told of Helen being beaten by Higgins with his belt and how she had been locked out of doors for punishment one night when the thermometer registered five degrees below zero.

They told of hearing the child scream during her beatings. Mrs. Margaret Reynolds testified she saw Higgins beat the child on the face and shoulders when she recited the alphabet and left out the letter "z."

Mrs. Reynolds said Mrs. Higgins asked Helen where she got meat one day as they were eating, and the child told her. Mrs. Higgins then, according to Mrs. Reynolds, said to her husband, "Doesn't that child need a beating!"

Mrs. Reynolds said Higgins then took off his belt, doubled it and struck the child seven or eight times. Mrs. Reynolds said she left the house and immediately called Mrs. Anna Clement, an investigator for the public welfare board.

SAYS SCHOOL TAX ILLEGAL

INJUNCTION FILED AGAINST CONCEPTION SCHOOL BOARD.

HEARING IS TOMORROW

Ask Order Restraining the Extending and Collection of Two Different Levies In That District.

Charging that the School Board of Conception Junction had made no legal order authorizing an election and that election held there for school levy is void, Gabe Purcell, J. A. Klaas, Leo King, Thomas F. Merrigan and P. R. Growney of Cenception Junction, filed an injunction in circuit court this afternoon for an order to restrain the extending and collection of a 25 cent tax and a 15 cent tax per $100 valuation in Conception Junction school district to be used for "Building fund" and "sinking fund" respectively.

The injunction suit was filed against Anton M. Schaffer, J. H. Jamison, Henry J. Alden, James C. Donaldson, who constitute a majority of the board of education there, Gertrude Walsh, collector of revenue of Jefferson township, and Fred Smith, clerk of county court.

The hearing is set for 10 o'clock tomorrow morning before Judge John M. Dawson.

The injunction prays that the court will perpetually enjoin, refrain and prohibit what the petition terms the "illegal tax of 25 cents and 15 cents for building and sinking funds" from being extended on the tax book, to be collected by the collector and the school board enjoined from receiving and expending such money received on the illegal tax and that money in sums of $2,003, $1,617, $1,500 and $1,500 be restored to the building funds.

Irregularities are charged in the injunction suit against the majority members of the school board in that the law was violated when tax was submitted to voters for approval because no time and place mentioned in order, that ballots cast in election are illegal, that the school board unlawfully transferred from building fund to teacher's fund, $2,000 in 1921, $1,617 in 1923, $1,500 in 1924 and $1,500 in March, 1925, and fraudulently submitted to voters on April 7, 1925, a proposition to levy a 25 cent tax and 15 cent tax.

It is also declared in the injunction that the sum of $2,143 is now on hand for paying bonds that come due in 1926 and in reality only $1,175 will be due on building bonds next year and therefore the 15 cents levy is not necessary for sinking fund.

An estimate of the taxes to be levied on all taxable property in the district for 1925 was filed in county court's office on May 25 by J. H. Jamison and Lee Stowell, secretary of the board, which estimate included teachers', incidental and general tax of $1 on $100 valuation; and in addition 25 cents for building fund and 15 cents for sinking fund, a total of $1.40 on the hundred dollars valuation. Gabe Purcell and Leo King, who signed the injunction, are also members of the board of education since April, 1925. This school district where the injunction suit arises is situated wholly within municipal township of Jefferson.

TWO NEGROES TO GALLOWS

EXECUTIONS AT ST. LOUIS AND MONTGOMERY.

ONE ADMITS GUILT

But Leon Williams Protests His Innocence to Last—Final Effort For Reprieve Fails.

St. Louis, July 17.—Protesting his innocence to the last but declaring his willingness to die that he might receive justice from the "Supreme Judge Above," Leon Williams, 27, negro slayer, went calmly to his death on the county jail scaffold today. He was convicted of murdering Harry Leonard, saloon owner, during a hold-up.

An eleventh-hour appeal for mercy made by the widow of Leonard, the alleged victim, failed to stay the execution. Mrs. Leonard had appealed to Governor Baker who announced that only presentation of new evidence could bring a reprieve.

Montgomery, Mo., July 17.—James Crump, negro slayer of Sheriff Chal Blum of Mexico, Mo., was hanged here today admitting his guilt as he mounted the scaffold.

ANOTHER BLOW FOR DEFENSE

RAULSTON EXCLUDES SCIENTIFIC TESTIMONY.

READY FOR APPEAL

Court Adjourned Until Monday To Give Darrow and Associates Time To Prepare Necessary Briefs.

Courtroom, Dayton, Tenn., July 17.—With scientific knowledge barred from the legal clash between religion and evolution, the trial of John Thomas Scopes was adjourned today until Monday to permit defense counsel to prepare a brief of excluded testimony for inclusion in the records so the case can be appealed to the higher courts.

Courtroom, Dayton, Tenn., July 17.—The long-heralded clash between science and religion over the origin of man was eliminated from the Scopes anti-evolution trial today when Presiding Judge Raulston upheld the motion of the State of Tennessee to exclude scientific testimony.

The court held that the testimony of the dozen scientists called here by the defense to reconcile evolution theories and the Biblical story of the creation would be irrevalent and incompetent.

It was the death blow to the defense's hope for an acquittal of Scopes.

In his decision, Judge Raulston ruled that the only time expert testimony was needed in the trial was when the ordinary man could not form an opinion. He held though that in the Scopes case, no such situation existed as the only question was whether Scopes had violated the law by teaching a theory which defied the divine creation of man.

INTUITION STILL AHEAD.

While it may still be true that weeping will not save us when considered from the moral standpoint, tears are great life-savers in the physical sense, according to a London doctor, who claims to have discovered the tear has marvelous power as a germ slayer.

Womanish tears, so long derided by men, have now been vindicated, and along with them the intuitive powers of women. For women always knew it was the proper thing to cry on certain occasions, although they were unable to give a reason for their tears, which just would begin to flow at the most unexpected times. Women have always known intuitively when tears were needed, and so shed them, thus keeping able to endure trials at which strong men would quail.

So also the crying of the baby is shown to be the proper thing. True, in recent years doctors have advised mother to let the baby cry occasionally, as it developed its lungs. But now we know it also serves to destroy germs, and the baby shows an uncanny knowledge of the use of tears by shedding them at the approach of undesirable relatives and friends who will probably want to kiss it the first thing.

Good neighbors and good digestion are rather similar. Neither bothers you much.

Fine clothes bring little consolation to a hard working wife when the clothes are on the husband.

The government says the per capita circulation in this country was 40 cents less on July first than it was on June first. Remembering that the vacation season had been on for a whole month, it is surprising that it had not shown a greater shrinkage.

FOR BETTER COURTS IN MISSOURI.

(St. Joseph News-Press)

With the object of more efficient court procedure two distinct movements are now under way in Missouri. One is the movement to prepare a model criminal code for the state, a work which will be under the direct supervision of former Governor Herbert S. Hadley, and in which Judge R. E. Culver of St. Joseph will assist in the capacity of director.

The other is a crime survey with the purpose of locating the weak spots in the court and administrative systems of the state. Whether the system is at fault or whether merely lax and incompetent officials are to blame will be determined. Records of the Buchanan County criminal court are now being examined, as are the records of courts in other parts of the state. When the survey is completed it will become the basis of recommendations to the legislature for alterations in the law. Both movements are being conducted by the Missouri Association for Criminal Justice.

Under direction of the American Law Institute there is also under way a national work of similar purpose, the drafting of a national code of criminal procedure, to be brought to the attention of legislatures throughout the country. Dr. William Draper Lewis, dean of the University of Pennsylvania law school, is at the head of this undertaking. The committee which will plan the method of procedure includes the names of John W. Davis and Elihu Root. The work is being financed at the rate of $20,000 a year for three years by the Laura Spellman Rockefeller Foundation.

The national and state movements have a common object and are in perfect harmony. It is encouraging to know that when the Missouri association brings the fruit of its labors to the legislature for enactment into law it will be morally backed and have the co-operation of a great national organization, with the prospect that the legislature will be more impressed than it might be if the request emanated from a state source exclusively.

The demand is for a more honest relation between consul and jury and counsel and court, to get rid of mischievous technicalities, to avoid appeals where the purpose is solely to defeat justice. But these are things which many members of the Missouri legislature heretofore have regarded as "revolutionary." They were wary of them, sometimes through honest timidity, sometimes through ulterior motives. But they are the ends toward which the processes of justice are working, and already have worked to a large extent in some of the states.

WICHITA MAKES WAR ON PEDDLERS.

(St. Joseph Gazette)

That the Chamber of Commerce and Retail associations of various cities realize the necessity of encouraging the support and patronage of their home stores and industries is evidenced by the activities that are being put forth by various cities throughout the United States, through newspaper advertising, circulars, and the dissemination of various other forms of propaganda and literature.

The Chamber of Commerce of Wichita, Kansas, comes forth with an unique idea through the issuance of a tag (miniature reproduction of which is printed here below), that is distributed to every residence, and is prepared with eyelet hole that permits it being tied upon door knob, tacked up or hung in a prominent place at the entrance of the residence. On one side the following appears in bold type:

* * * * * * * * * *
* Notice to Peddlers, Agents and *
* Order Takers *
* No Admittance *
* We don't need your goods. *
* Wichita merchants carry com- *
* plete stocks and *
* We Trade At Home. *
* * * * * * * * * *

This is "shooting straight at the bull's eye" and shows a determination on the part of the citizen who displays such a notice that he is in hearty accord with the spirit and purpose of the movement to preserve the business of Wichita for Wichita merchants. On the other side of the card appears the following:

* * * * * * * * * *
* Mrs. Housewife: This card is *
* furnished to you by the Wich- *
* ita Chamber of Commerce, *
* Wichita, Kansas, and additional copies will be mailed to *
* yourself or friends upon re- * * quest. It is given to you with *
* the thought that it might aid *
* you in getting rid of the "Ped- *
* dler" and "Agent" nuisance. *
* We suggest that you tack it up *
* where they will see it and use it *
* when called upon to reject them. *
* * * * * * * * * *

This indorsement and action on the part of the Chamber of Commerce gives prestige and impetus to the movement, and as the usual Chamber of Commerce is made up from a membership at large it refutes any charge that might be made or any suspicion that there is a selfish motive that prompts such action on the part of any particular group of merchants.

Wichita realizes, as all other cities are rapidly finding out, that Home Merchants are the ones that build up a city, supports its civic enterprises and that the mail order houses and all other outside concerns selling at retail, whether direct by mail, a mere "Peddler" or "House to House Canvasser," saps the commercial vitality of a city and does not add anything to its upbuilding.

It is a peculiar fact and it has been proven by comparison and close examination that merchandise offered by these outside concerns seems to be of a kind, style and character that is unknown to the regular channels of trade. This is done to prevent the purchasers making proper comparison and is sold to them largely upon the price appeal (and ofttimes with the inducements of special discounts that stand for nothing), and prizes are used as a selling method.

"Don't take a shingle off your own house." Every dollar that is spent in the local stores or in the purchase of the product of a local industry, means just that much more money for local circulation and investment."

STEWART'S WASHINGTON LETTER

By Charles P. Stewart
NEA Service Writer.

Washington—If Gifford Pinchot is elected to the United States senate next year, it will be over the bodies of all Coolidge administration supporters in general, of course including the body of Senator George Wharton Pepper, whose seat Pinchot wants to take away from him, and over the body of Secretary of the Treasury Andrew Mellon in particular.

When one considers how tremendously big a man Secretary Mellon is in the present administration, what weight his word carried . . . and the things Pinchot has said about him . . . incidentally landing some ringing cracks over his head, upon the presidential dome itself . . . and when one considers that Pinchot is trying to get into the senate from Mellon's own state . . . and at the expense of Senator Pepper, whom the administration likes pretty well . . .

When one considers all this, one understands why the idea of Pinchot's senatorial aspirations makes the administration froth so.

Secretary Mellon didn't want Pinchot for governor of Pennsylvania in the first place. The Republican state organization fought him but he won.

This angered the organization to begin with and Pinchot angered it worse later.

Then he began making trouble for the national administration by complaints of federal prohibition non-enforcement. This was injurious and Pinchot added insult to it.

President Coolidge explained that the national administration was doing its best and it was up to the state governors, including Pinchot to help some. To the statement that the national administration was doing its best Pinchot, in effect, answered with a contemptuous "Bosh"—a way no president likes to be talked to.

Pinchot didn't even concede that the administration "meant well." He said Secretary Mellon didn't want to enforce the law.

Why not?—inquired some. Whereupon Pinchot pointed to the secretary's distillery interests.

Analyze the innuendo in this explanation and it becomes evident it's the kind of thing a public man—particularly a very high and mighty one, like Mellon—is apt to put in the absolutely unforgivable class.

JUST LIKE A MAN.

There is a man in Maryville,
One of these well, wise guys;
One day he asked his better-half
To let him make the pies.

She wasn't very anxious,
To have him muss around;
But to let him have the kitchen,
Was the easy way she found.

He got the lard and flour,
And made a chunk of dough;
Hunted up the rolling pin,
And rolled it out just so.

And then he took a pie-rex,
Put in the under crust;
Sliced the apples very thin,
As good pie makers must.

He put on plenty sugar,
Some nutmeg and all-spice
And then put on the upper crust,
All rolled out thin and nice.

"So far so good" quoth "wifey"
As round the edge he thumbed;
And as he was so doing,
An old love tune he hummed.

He opened up the oven door,
And put it on the shelf;
With a smile of satisfaction,
Much tickled with himself.

He then picked up a paper,
And sat him down to read;
Nor ever thought that father time,
Was passing with such speed.

He, maybe, would be reading yet,
It's reasonable to suppose;
Had not this erst-while wise guy,
A sensitive old nose.

He opened up the oven door,
Out came a cloud of smoke;
It would'nt do to put in print,
The words this fellow spoke.

Three things had right there happened,
He had lost his great conceit;
Had dirtied up the kitchen,
And had no pie to eat.

Now that was many years ago,
And as you may surmise;
He never since has asked his wife,
To let him make the pies.

You wonder who this fellow is,
Who lately is so tame;
Some people call him Jerry,
But that is not his name.

—"JERRY."

Having Difficulty in Repairing Ship

MacMillan Arctic Expedition Is Being Held Up At Hopedale, Labrador, According To Radio Message.

Washington, July 17.—The crew of the MacMillan Arctic ship Bowdoin is having a difficult time repairing the broken propeller of the vessel at Hopedale, Labrador, Commander MacMillan reported in a radio message received yesterday by the National Geographic Society.

The message apparently was filed last Wednesday night.

"We are making our third attempt to put on a spare propeller," he said. "The Evil Spirit of the North, so familiar to the Eskimos, temporarily has turned all his attention to the white visitors from the South.

"Unfortunately, we are having tides with a rise and fall of only four feet. To raise our broken propeller above water we have shifted all the deck load to the bow on the Bowdoin.

"Even this failed to accomplish our object. Therefore, tonight we placed four large empty casks under the stern of the Bowdoin, hoping that when the tide rose they would lift the Bowdoin at least six inches.

"With the thermometer at 70 degrees and with swarms of mosquitos, you can imagine our difficulties, in comparison to which pack ice, icebergs, thick fog and gales of wind are a trifle and even looked forward to with pleasure. Our only encouragement is that the height of the tides is increasing, which means the job ultimately will be done."

Another message said:

"Gerfalcon nest seen containing young, but none reached yet. Many grampus whales are sighted between here and Cape Harrigin, seals were a common sight. Three of our men sitting among a cloud of mosquitos last night speared fifty-six flounders. They used smooth-tined pitchforks."

Camping Out After Recent Earthquake

Granddaughter Of Mrs. Samantha Cox, North Mulberry Street, Writes Of Tremors In Santa Barbara

The following letter has been received by Mrs. Samantha Cox, 1109 North Mulberry street, from her grand-daughter, Mrs. Ralph Cox, of Santa Barbara, Calif., telling of the recent earthquake.

"We have been camping out every since the quake, for three reasons. First, we were too scared and shook up to sleep in doors; second, we had no lights, and third, we had no gas. As soon as we had the first shock, the lights and gas were cut off to prevent fires which we only had one and that was an old frame house.

"It was terrible and I hope we never have to go through anything like it again. The town is practically in ruins. Our famous old mission was badly damaged and the Catholic church was practically ruined. We all walked up the middle of State street an hour and a half after the first shake. Up until Saturday evening from Monday morning we have had 264 quakes. Of course we haven't felt all of them but a machine records them.

"So you see we are glad to stay outdoors and camp. The quake shook our brick fireplace into the floor and two of our vases were shaken off and broken. We just have enough dishes left to use."

Tells of Plans for Local Day at Fair

The following letter from C. N. Nelson, secretary of the Bedford Fair Association at Bedford, Ia., has been received at the office of the Maryville Chamber of Commerce:

"I have your letter of the 14th saying you had taken Wednesday the 29th as your day at our fair. This is agreeable with me, but would a little rather you had Thursday as that is the day we get the best crowd. The program will be just as good Wednesday though. I went to our Community Club meeting last night and had a reception committee appointed. I called attention to the fact that Wednesday was Maryville day in our papers this week. I suppose you will come up in automobiles. You will have some banners and advertising matter. We will have a meeting place to go to the grounds in a body.

"Work out your own plans. Don't be afraid to advertise your town, you won't make us sore, and let us make this day worth while. Lenox, Ia., is going to have a day. See if you can beat them, even if you are farther away.

"Send me your program by Saturday, so I can get it in all the papers next week."

An All Star Cast in "The Early Bird"

There's a real all-star cast at the Empire Theater tonight and Saturday in "The Early Bird," which features Johnny Hines and includes in its support such notable screen folk as Sigrid Holmquist, Wyndham Standing, Edmund Breese, Flora Finch, Maud Turner Gordon and Bradley Barker. This is not just another of those high-sounding casts which has little to do. Each of the above-named players carry their portion of this highly interesting photoplay in splendid fashion. Sigrid Holmquist is especially busy throughout the entire picture and Wyndham Standing and Edmund Breese follow in close order. "The Early Bird" has all to do with the fame to fortune of a milk-driver who stops at no obstacles to accomplish what he is after, and how well he gains his ends is all cleverly told in one of the most enjoyable pictures of the year.

Mrs. Joe Holt, who has been seriously ill at St. Francis Hospital since the birth of her daughter, July 1, is improved and will be able to return to her home near Quitman soon.

Says Cancer Cause Still Undiscovered

But at Same Time Numerous Experiments Are Being Made by Various Laboratories.

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

Editor of the Journal of the American Medical Association.

(Copyright 1925 by United Press)

Chicago, July 17.—During the past 20 years numerous investigators have reported the finding of various bacterial organisms, both those visible under the microscope and the so-called ultra-miserscopic variety, in association with human cancer. None of the organisms thus far found which have alleged to be the specific cause of the disease has been confirmed as the actual cause.

Indeed the majority of investigators who are devoting themselves particularly to studies of the cause of cancer believe that the disease is not caused primarily by a bacterial organism, but that it is the result of other factors, chemical or physical or related to some specific substance within the human cell, not yet determined.

At the same time it seems reasonable to believe that bacterial organisms of various conditions may find cancer tissue a suitable place for their growth within the human body, and may thus modify in various ways the growth and development of cancer.

Some years ago, Dr. Peyton Rous of the Rockefeller Institute, described an ultra-microscopic organism or filtrable virus in relation with certain experimental tumors in chickens. The term "filtrable virus" refers to the fact that the alleged organism is so small that it will be filtered with the fluid containing it through a porcelain filter. Recent studies indicate that this organism may be the type of the much discussed "bacteriophage"

Evidently the British investigators have pursued somewhat further the work of Peyton Rous with this form of tumor, and their report is to some extent a confirmation of his investigations.

It will be a considerable step to find the relationship of such an organism to cancer as it occurs in man. Obviously the next procedure will be to determine if any such relationship exists, and obviously also, the present series of experiments, while a great interest from the research point of view, has no immediate bearing on either the prevention or the cure of human cancer.

Roosevelt Expedition Trophies in Museum

More Valuable Articles Are on Way, According to Letters Received From Hunters.

Chicago, July 17. (United Press)—The initial trophies of the Roosevelt expedition to central Asia have already been forwarded to the Field Museum it was announced with the receipt of word from Theodore and Kermit Roosevelt and George K. Cherrie, leaders of the enterprise.

"When I next write I hope I shall have five poll marco Polo sheep, trophy of trophies sought by the expedition to Asia" Kermit wrote.

The letters written from Leh, Kashmir, states that birds and mammals are on the way and gives plans for the advance into the Pamirs and Tien Shan.

It is planned to split the expedition at Leh, Theodore and Kermit going first to the Pamirs for poll and then by way of Kashgar to Kasu. Cherrie is to lead the biggest part of the expedition to Safari and Kasu by way of Yarkland. The two bodies are to meet at Kasu for joint trip to Tien Shan.

Theodore wrote that:

"So far everything has gone reasonably smoothly. We are here at Leh and all of the party are well."

Charles Chaplin, Jr. Said to Be "Comer"

Infant's Great Grandfather Says Noted Comedian's Son Is "Just As Smart As They Make 'em."

Hollywood, Cal. July 17. (United Press)—A natural comedian, with his famous dad's genius and temperament, that's Charlie Chaplin, Jr., according to W. E. Curry, the infant's great grandfather.

"He's just as funny right now as his dad ever was" declared the proud little grandfather of Lita Gray, 17 year old mother of the crown prince of comedy. "And he's just as smart as they make 'em."

"They haven't made any plans yet for his career, but he'll make a sure-enough successor to his old dad if they'll give him the chance."

Curry is one of the chosen few who have had a glimpse of the Chaplin heir, born, according to the comedian's press agent, on June 28, last.

William Mapel of the Edina Sentinel and his brother, Frank Mapel of Jamesport, motored to Maryville today to visit friends over the week end.

FURTHER ADVENTURES OF SAINT PAUL.

Comment on the Uniform International Sunday School Lesson for July 19, 1925.

Read Acts 14.

Wm. Southern, Jr.

When the Romans could not explain any unusual happening they attributed it to the gods. They believed in many gods and it was a very convenient belief at that. Their gods often came down to earth in disguise and mingled with the people and people were very careful about how they treated strangers on that account.

There is a beautiful legend told in verse entitled Baucis and Philemon. This old couple lived in Asia Minor in the district where Barnabas and Paul made their first missionary journey. The story is that Jupiter and Mercury once came to visit the earth. They assumed the guise of humans and sought for food and a place to sleep. They were turned away from door to door and refused help until they came to the poor house of Baucis and Philemon. Here they were hospitably entertained and welcomed as friends.

When the two gods came to leave they asked the old couple to make a wish and promised that it would be granted and their wish was that when they came to die they might die together. And, according to the legend,

"In Phrygian ground
Two neighboring trees, with walls encompassed round,
Stand on a moderate rise, with wonder shown,
One a hard oak, a softer linden, one;"

The gods had transformed the old couple into two companion trees when they came to die.

Such legends as this and such belief in the gods met Barnabas and Paul as they brought the Christian religion across the Mediterranean sea to Antioch and Pisidia, to Iconium and to Lystra. They sought the cities where many people could be found. They preached in the synagogues where there were synagogues and in the open where there were no churches. In Antioch and Iconium they were run out of the city, once by organized and managed authority and again by a mob.

When they came to preach at Lystra, Paul saw sitting before him and listening intently to his words a man who had been a cripple from birth. He called to the man and healed him. At this people marveled and at once concluded that two of the gods had come among them. The legend of Baucis and Philemon was at once in their minds and they did not wish to turn away the gods from whom great fortune might come. They decided that Barnabas was Jupiter and Paul Mercury and prepared to worship by sacrifice and heathen ceremonies. Paul and Barnabas were horrified and ran among them calling excitedly that they were not gods. "We also are men of like passions with you." They did not stop the celebration but lost their hold on the people. The evening of the same day came Jews from other cities they had visited and Paul was thrown out and stoned and left for dead. Barnabas stood looking at the supposed-to-be lifeless form of his friend and mourning at the awful ending of their journey when Paul arose and they continued on their way.

After this experience at Lystra, Barnabas and Paul went to one other city, established a Christian church there, and then made a return journey visiting in turn every city in Asia Minor where they had established churches. This required a lot of courage and Paul had plenty of that. The record does not mention any more exciting adventures on the return journey, but does say that their converts welcomed them gladly and that the new churches continued to flourish. Then Barnabas and Paul returned to the mother church at Antioch which had sent them out and made a complete report of the trip.

The attacks on Barnabas and Paul, the fact that they fled for their lives from the cities which they visited, or that they were the means of a miraculous healing, are not the big lessons we have from these recitals. These things make the news of the recitation. The expected accomplishment of a mission is not news, but healing a cripple is. Dr. Luke was reporter enough to give place to the adventure part of the story.

The real story is that these two early Christian missionaries, at the risk of their lives, traveled on foot hundreds of miles, in a strange country, in a country where many gods were worshipped and where any slighting of local gods was to draw ire, and preached the Gospel. Their great mission was to establish the Christian church and they established churches wherever they went. Being driven out by hostile magistrates, being stoned by a mob and followed to the next town by their enemies was a mere incident in their work.

The reason our churches are not filled, the reason so many seem to take no interest in religion, is that it is too easy. It is no trouble to join a church. One may pick out any kind of a doctrine he pleases and there is a church for him. It is not dangerous to preach the gospel of Christianity. Even the police in the cities would be called out to protect any kind of a preacher. It is also considered quite respectable to be a Christian these days.

There is no thrill, there is no adventure, there is no risk of life in being a Christian. Therefore we prefer to spend Sunday breaking speed limits or trying to beat somebody at some game.

I am not at all discouraged that this is true. I believe the great heart of the people is right and that it always rises to meet whatever emergency may come.

The cause of Christianity has always met every crisis. It grows stronger in danger and softer in ease.

More men are ruined by sudden success than by failure and hardships.

Vitalized Agriculture Work Proving Popular

(Green and White Courier)

The work of S. T. C. is not confined to Northwest Missouri exclusively but is carried into adjoining states, where its influence is felt. A demand for Vitalized Agriculture is being made in a number of places in Nebraska as a result of the excellent work done at S. T. C.

Mr. Cooper has been called upon to give short courses in Vitalized Agricultural at three places in Nebraska. He will also deliver a number of lectures on this subject before educational meetings in that state during the coming months. He began to fill these appointments this week when he spoke before an educational conference held at Peru, Nebraska, Thursday and Friday. He also addressed a District County Superintendent's Conference while there. Mr. Cooper was at Peru last year and addressed the assembly at the college.

Peru introduced Vitalized Agriculture in the college this year. Mrs. L. D. Clark of Fairbury, Nebraska, is giving the course. She has been a student in Mr. Cooper's classes for the last three summers.

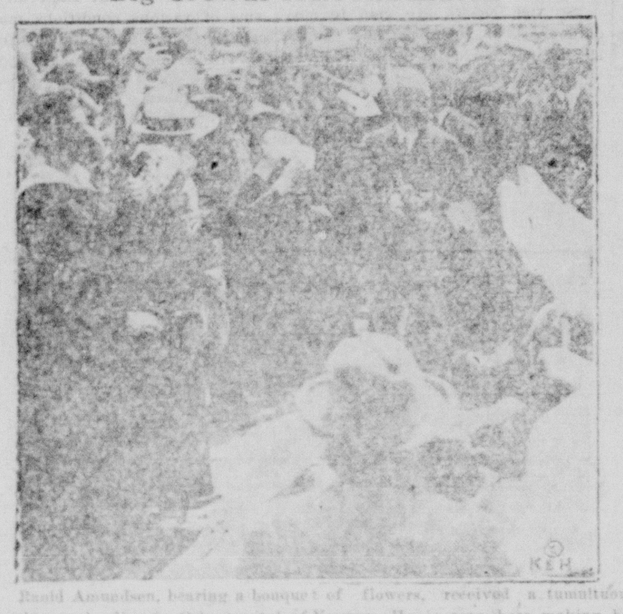
On August 24, Mr. Cooper will begin his third short course at Wahoo, Nebraska. The following week beginning August 31, he will give short courses at Fairbury, and Nelson, Nebraska, dividing his time between the two places to supervise the faculty at each place. On September 19, Mr. Cooper will attend the county institute at Tesumseh, Nebraska, where he will speak to the rural teachers on the subject of Vitalized Agriculture. He will finish his appointments in this field on November 5, 6, and 7, when he is to speak before the State Teachers Association of Nebraska.

During Mr. Cooper's absence Thursday and Friday of this week, his classes in Vitalized Agriculture were in charge of Dr. Fryer who discussed the subject of hygiene with them.

A Greeting From the King

Raold Amundsen and Lincoln Ellsworth met an enthusiastic crowd when they landed at the Bridge of Honor in Oslo, Norway, where representatives of the king waited to take them to the palace. Ellsworth is shown at the left with Amundsen beside him, both indicated by arrows.

Big Crowds Hail Amundsen



Raold Amundsen, bearing a bouquet of flowers, received a tumultuous greeting on landing in Oslo, capital of Norway. He is seen here making his way through lines of cheering citizens, with Lincoln Ellsworth, his American companion, directly behind him.

Many States Are Spending Large Sums in Advertising Their Communities

The following is the thirty-eighth installment of the article on "Community Advertising," written for the Democrat-Forum by D. A. Caldwell, secretary of the Maryville Chamber of Commerce.

More than $50,000 per year is to be expended to tell the north and east of Georgia as an industrial opportunity. The purpose of the campaign is to advance the state's surplus electric power and to induce outside industries to locate there.

Connecticut is considering statewide advertising designed to attract tourists to the natural scenic beauty and to list the values of the state, such as education, recreational facilities, industry and commerce.

Alabama is advertising. Likewise the Carolinas are planning a statewide campaign.

In the advertising campaign and in the economic progress which are to be recorded in the tomorrow there should be more procedure along the lines of constructive endeavor.

Texas and the southwest are coming on in a surprising manner with cotton, figs, citrus fruits, and pecans.

The development of the back country means the future growth of cities. City advertising has already come to realize that its final effectiveness is dependent upon the efforts put forth.

The average community excels in something. Communities can only hope to become substantial and modern by the wills and powers of men and women who are not afraid lest someone else gets ahead while they are exerting every effort to stabilize conditions and create an economic background that is sound and fundamental. Men and women who live in the present and strive, through work and doing, to bequeath to those who are yet to follow, a richer heritage than that which they, themselves enjoy, are the real builders of our communities. The task which they voluntarily undertake is not without risk and hazard.

"Irish" Garten and "Freckles" Greenlee, Mascots of Battery C, Are Making Good As Laundrymen

Fort Riley, Kan., July 16, 1925.—Today is a most pleasant day. A cool breeze in the east, the thermometer hovering around 90 degrees, making it almost ideal.

My predictions concerning our expected excitement with our horses was only partially fulfilled. Captain Phares picked one horse but kept him only a few minutes. He said that the way the horse laid his ears back detracted from his appearance, so he traded for another. Also, Harry Barr has proven possible the fact that one may dismount without using the stirrups. Personal conversation with him concerning his method has given me little satisfaction.

Our two mascots, "Irish" Garten and "Freckles" Greenlee, are having a time. They are good business men. They will wash a shirt for 50 cents or they will wash a dozen articles for the same price. Fifty cents seems to be their minimum wage. They saluted the Major last night on the company street and he gave them a dollar. Irish told me this morning that he would salute a private or a corporal for ten years.

All the fellows were up bright and early this morning and they did not have to be called. This near miracle was due to the cold night we spent. We all had two blankets over us all night but at that, only very few could sleep. About 3:30 this morning most of the men got up and put on their uniforms and managed to hold out till time for chow at 6 a. m.

The Major sprang a surprise on us this morning. He usually tells us how far below par we are, but this morning he inspected us in gun practice and said we were the best outfit in the battalion. There is probably a catch somewhere back of this unusual praise.

As much as the Major rides us, we know he secretly holds us in high esteem. There is logic in such reasoning. Every time a detail is needed to do some dirty work or there is an orderly, clerk, etc., needed at headquarters, Battery C is called on unhesitatingly. Splendid proof isn't it?

We have been fortunate this year in not having any plagues to deal with. The two years past, we have been pestered with sand, horned toads, lizards and such pests. This year we have to deal only with flies. They cover camp in herds so it seems. After we fill our mess kits, we have to eat fast to keep them from getting most of our food. When we bathe they bite us and annoy us till they nearly drive us crazy.

All the fellows are feeling well. We have been having good chow and that is a big help. We have had only one or two men on the sick report and then only for minor ailments.

We go on the range Saturday. Till that time we anticipate a very easy life. However, this war is full of surprises so you never can tell.

We are using an old cook shack at the end of our battery street as a storehouse for the equipment. Battery Mechanic John Lattin sleeps there and is in charge during the absence of Supply Sgt. England. A battery pet, a good sized rattle snake, hangs out under the floor of this shack. I fear we will either have to rid it of this pet or get a new assistant.

We mount guard tomorrow night and the sergeants are having some difficulty in trying to decide who will mount the guard. None of us care to undertake it. I believe Sgt. Roach or Sgt. Conway will be kind enough to face the critical eyes of the Major.

First Sgt. England says fall in.

Sgt. RAY BLOMFIELD.

A. P. Logan Sells Steers for $12.50 on St. Joe Mart

A. P. Logan who basks in the sunshine of agricultural prosperity in Nodaway County where crop prospects this season could hardly be improved upon, was on market Thursday at St. Joseph with two loads of Hereford steers of the yearling class that sold at the pleasing price of $12.50. There were forty-three head in the lot that averaged 898 pounds. These cattle, according to Mr. Logan, made a good gain while in the feedlot, brought a very satisfactory price, netting him a fair profit.—St. Joseph Stock Yards Journal.

NODAWAY COUNTY A YEAR AGO TODAY.

A severe electrical and wind storm swept the entire county last night, swelling the streams to bank full, hampering telephone communication and damaging the corn crop to a great extent.

Lightning last night struck the home of F. E. Weidner, 904 North Main street, causing a fire that damaged the residence to the amount of $200.

H. L. Raines has been named as vice-president of the State Optometric Board, at a recent meeting of the body at St. Louis.

The health work in the county was commended highly today by Dr. Walter McNabb Miller, executive officer of the state Tubercular Association, who was in the city today.

John Boyer of Burlington Junction was in Maryville yesterday.

"Squatter" Claims $3,000,000 Bit of Chicago Land

Frank Ropke is claiming the rights of the "squatter" within a short distance of the heart of the second largest city in America. He claims possession of a tract of land on the Chicago lake front because of his father's "discovery" of it in 1892, when a storm blew his boat ashore there. He is fought by railroads and industries, but courts twice have upheld him. The land's worth is estimated at from $500,000 to $3,000,000.

And This One Didn't Get Away!

You have to have your nerve along with you when you go fishing in the Sacramento River, California. F. Holland Dutton of Los Angeles tried it and hooked a 44-pound bass that he couldn't haul into the boat. So, handing the line to a friend, he jumped in the water after it. Even then it took him 15 minutes before he had the fish where he wanted it.

In Daddy's Footsteps

Just because his daddy, Mr. Mickey Walker, failed to win the middleweight title by beating Harry Greb the other day, little Mickey Walker Jr., has put on the gloves and some day hopes to show the big world what he can do with his fists. In other words, you may hear from him later in pugilistic circles, providing of course he keeps up his desires to follow in the footsteps of his illustrious dad.

Alton, Ill., Kids Trouble Officers

Alton, Ill., July 17.—(United Press)—Harry Osborne and Jake Sale, 10 years old, prove the outstanding enigma to local police.

The latest prank of the audacious youngsters is that of commandeering a Big Four Railroad speedster and taking a 10 mile trip down the company's tracks. They forgot to ask permission to use the speedster.

They were arrested, housed in the detention home, and almost as promply broke out and escaped.

Chicago Closing Grain Review.

Chicago, July 17.—Divided caution featured grain finishes on the Board of Trade here today. Wheat was sharply higher and corn fractionally lower with oats fractionally higher.

Activity of short interest was responsible for wheat's recovery from an early break. Secondary in importance was higher cables. Higher cables created better cash demand and this had a natural reflection in future trading.

Corn futures showed a firm upper turn.

The last fractionally drop was due to the belief that heat damage complaints were not so serious as pictured. Oats followed wheat and provisions closed higher.

GOOD HOPE

July 16th.

Top o' the morning to you. This sure is fine, compared with that which we have been having; were it not for this breeze it would still be hot, but we are usually favored by old Mother Nature, if we only thought so.

The corn is just wonderful, so big and healthy looking, the fine rain Tuesday night was accompanied by quite a strong wind that broke some of it off, not badly.

Everyone is just too busy to talk or do anything but work, we are so rushed with the haying, everyone of the neighbors who hasn't hay of their own are helping the other fellow, and the women are busy cooking for these fellows who come in tired and hungry.

Guy Blanchard is looing over his threshing rig, and getting it in shape to begin the rounds in a few days.

There was a meeting of the High land Club machine last night at Highland and W. D. Jones will be the engineer and a Mr. Mace will run the separator. These machines will be going now in a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Jones and Miss Marie visited Frank Davis and family last Sunday and Earl with a company of his school fellows spent the day at Guilford with Earl's room mate, Medsker, when they were in college.

Mrs. Charles Wills and children from Alliance, Nebr., who is visiting her parents, Rev. Harman and wife accompanied them and her sister, Mrs. Ed Brubaker and children last Sunday to church and were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Morehouse.

Last Sunday at Good Hope the Rev. Mr. Harman announced that he would begin a series of meetings about the middle of August at Good Hope. He expects to have help and we are hoping for a good meeting. Let us all rally to the call.

The blackberries look now like there would be be a great plenty and especially if these rains continue every week.

Don't forget to come to S. S. next Sunday at 10 o'clock.

SMALL CITY IS WINNER AGAIN

INDIAN REFINING CO. MOVES FROM NEW YORK.

NOT LOSING EITHER

Auction in East Will Not Change Control of Large Corporation, According to Officials.

Lawrenceville, Ill., July 17 (United Press).—New York has biven away to a smaller city so far as the business affairs of the Indian Refining Company is concerned.

Eighteen months ago the main offices of the company were moved from New York's financial district to the new $22,000,000 plant of the company here. The past eighteen months has been teh most prosperous in the company's history, according to the officials, and they attribute it to the move from the metropolis here.

The plant here now occupies 361 acres of ground and is employing 2,000 men. The business has increased fifty per cent—through having officers on the ground floor here—and company officials estimate there is a saving of $266,000 annually by having the head offices here.

The plant is Lawrenceville's show place.

In connection with the affairs of the company it is announced that despite the controlling interest of the company is to be sold at public auction in New York on July 22, that the control will not be changed.

In 1920 the controlling interest in the Indian Refining Company—some 425,000 shares—was purchased by the Seaboard Finance and Investment Company of New York. Gold notes were issued and the Indian stock was used as security with the Guaranty Trust Company of New York as trustee.

Recently move was started to liquidate the affairs of the Seaboard Corporation and it was found that the company's chief holding was Indian stock.

Colonel James H. Graham, president of the Seaboard Company and his associates including Charles Sabin, Robert Montgomery, Walter Janney, Bayard Dominick, D. M. Goodrich and other eastern financiers decided to make the Indian stock a permanent investment. A voting trust was formed.

Inasmuch as these men control the Seaboard Company it is announced that the control of the local company will not change and that the auction in the east on July 22 has no significance other than legalizing the transfer of the stock from one holding company to another.

WILL TIGHTEN DRY BLOCKADE

TO BE STRENGTHENED FROM COAST TO COAST.

PLANS ARE OUTLINED

Border Forces To Be Augmented—Has Made Number of Investigating Trips, Official Says.

Washington, July 17.—America s blockade of the Canadian border against rum running is to be strengthened from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

Lincoln C. Andrews, assistant secretary of the treasury, generalissimo of the nation's prohibition enforcement army, made that announcement here yesterday in connection with his first trip to the Canadian border.

Andrews will leave Washington today to consult with officials stationed along the border from St. Albans, Vt., to Rouses Point, N. Y., thus inaugurating his general plan to hold customs officials responsible for the prevention of smuggling through their entire districts, instead of just through the towns in which they are stationed.

To Augment Border Forces.

Insufficient personnel and lack of equipment, so Andrews says, has made it impossible for the customs collectors to cope successfully with the smuggling of liquor and other commodities across the border. But he said yesterday it is his plan to augment the border patrol, not only with men, but with motor cars and additional boats. Until Andrews has named the twenty-two district administrators, who are to control enforcement throughout the United States, he will not start on his country-wide inspection trip.

Once the new prohibition machinery has been set up and the twenty-two district administrators placed in charge, Andrews wants to get away for two months and let it operate without direction from him. It is in that he plans to make his inspection of border conditions, going out by way of the Canadian border dropping down the Pacific Coast to Southern California, and returning along the Mexican border, covering the Gulf states and thence back up the Atlantic Coast.

Has Made Investigating Trips.

Prior to the inauguration of a general offensive against rum row off the Atlantic Coast, which has broken up the practice of ships riding at anchor a few miles off shore, within easy reach of runners, Andrews made a trip to the front line of the rum battle, and a little later made a prolonged stay at El Paso to get first hand information about smuggling from Mexico.

When Andrews starts west along the Canadian border he expects to visit Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago and Milwaukee. He is convinced that much liquor now is being smuggled across the Detroit River, sixty miles long but only one mile wide, and there, particularly, the forces of the custom officials are to be strengthened.

"Mud gunners" already are firing at Andrews. He is being accused of weakening in his announced intention to keep politics out of prohibition, because he is listening to the recommendations of senators and representatives in selecting his district administrators.

"I do not mean to say," he declared today, "that I do not propose to give their recommendations consideration. But they have not brought political pressure to bear on me or threatened me in case I should not name their men. I am going right ahead as I started out to do and select the best men for the jobs."

Chillicothe, Mo., July 17—It was announced today that Peoples Trust Co., of this city which failed February 20, on account of "frozen assets" will be reorganized.

It is planned to re-open the bank with a capital stock of $100,000, surplus of $20,000 and a holding fund of $80,000 to take care of the doubtful paper of the defunct organization. The new bank will take over all assets of the old organization.

Although not definitely stated it is thought that A. T. Weatherby, probate judge of Livingston County will be made president.

Jefferson City, Mo., July 15.—The office of the State Game and Fish Commission anounces that approximately 40,000 fish were placed in the stream around Charleston, Mo., last week.

BRITIAN IS NOT IN ON PARLEY

REPORTS SAY LONDON WILL REMAIN OUT.

U. S. IS NOT ADVISED

British Government's Attitude, It Is Said, Has Been Communicated To Ambassadors of Countries.

Washington, July 17.—The United States has not been advised that Great Britain is opposed to entering a conference on Chinese affairs this time, it was learned officially at the state department today. Secretary Kellogg has made proposals to the main powers which signed the Chinese treaty with regard to conference of absolution of extra-territorially that has received no replies to date.

London, July 17.—Great Britain has flatly informed the United States, France and Japan that she is opposed at this time to any conference of the powers to consider the question of abolition of extra territorial claims in China, which President Coolidge and Secretary Kellogg have been trying to arrange.

The British Government's attitude, it was learned today, was communicated to Ambassador Houghton and the French and Japanese ambassadors by Foreign Minister Chamberlain, who invited the diplomats to Downing street last night.

Miss Ruth Wohlford of Barnard went to Parnell today to spend the week end with her sister, Mrs. Lyman Hinkle, and family.

The Treasury finds it has a surplus of about $250,000,000. We hope some way will be found to get it back to the taxpayers before Congress meets. —Kansas City Star.
